

Session Six: Minefield Mission

After programming and testing their robots, the students continued to build trust in each other and nurture good communication skills through the Minefield activity. Students were blindfolded and listened to their teammates communicate directions to successfully cross through the obstacle course.

In addition to programming and testing their robots, the students discussed the theme of this session's Map It! activity: Role Models. In their journals, the students listed the following: 3 people who I admire, 4 things I admire about them, & 5 ways I can be more like them.
